The General Council, after the consultation to the Province, has named Brother António Leal the new Provincial of Compostela.

He will assume the charge during the celebration of the next Provincial Chapter in December of this year. He replaces Brother Oscar Martín Vicario, who has been directing the Province for the past six years.

"I accept this mission as the contribution that God asks me for a project of communion that I assumed when I became a Marist Brother," said the new Provincial when asked about his nomination.

"I pronounced my yes trusting in the love of God and placing my trust in Him," he added.

The Province of Compostela has communities in Spain, Portugal and Honduras, and the Provincial House is in Valladolid, Spain.

Speaking about the journey through the Province, Br António affirms that "the first years after the restructuring were times to place the basic foundations of our future."

Concerning his mission as Provincial he underscores that "with the help of the Brothers and Marist laity, we want to opt for the strengthening of the Marist identity of each member of the Province and for the joint responsibility or co-responsibility of all the educators in carrying out the Marist mission in each one of the places where we are present."

Br António was born in Rexaldia – Torres Novas, Portugal, in 1958. He was formed in the Juniorates of Leiria and of Lisbon and made his Novitiate in Cordoba, Spain, where he made his first profession in 1978.

He made his studies in Youth Pastoral Ministry, Religious Sciences and educational administration. He worked in initial formation, as professor of moral education and in the direction of the Marist Schools of Portugal. He was Provincial Superior of Portugal.

Province of Ibérica: Br Moisés Alonso Pérez

The new provincial of Ibérica recently appointed says the creation of a Christian Marist community as a reference in each educational work will be one of his focuses in his new post.

"An interesting challenge is to continue shaping what we have been promoting for some time: the creation of a Christian Marist community as a reference in each educational work to ensure the survival of the Marist charism in the works," said Brother Moisés Alonso, who is currently superior of the community of Alcalá de Henares.

"A community of brothers and lay people who feel Marist and want the Marist charism to survive in that work, even in the case that one day there may not be a community of brothers linked to it," he added in an interview with the general house press office on Oct. 8.

According to the Brother, "this is a challenge and a hope right now" and said that the Marists "have many people who believe in it, so I hope it comes true one day."

On the topic of vocations of brothers, Br Moisés reiterated that we should "offer young people our simple testimony of Brothers, that they see us happy and excited about our mission with children and youth and invite those who know us and feel called to join us to this project of life."

For seven years, he was a formator in the juniorates of Villalba and Toledo, with a brief interruption to attend university in Madrid where he studied theology and history.

He was entrusted with forming part of the provincial mission team, which he has labelled as "rich years in community and pastoral experience, accompanying university students and collaborating in the formation of animators".

He formed part of the provincial council and after two years in a community of insertion in the neighborhood of Entrevías in Madrid, was sent to the Chamberí school where he worked as a teacher and later as a principal.

He spent two summers as a volunteer in Central America and recalls the months in which he was involved in recycling in Cochabamba as "strong moments that revived my life and mission as a Marist brother."
